

The Criteria

NYIT Assessment Committee uses six criteria to evaluate academic program's annual assessment report. These criteria are based on Middle States Accreditation standards.

- The program identified learning outcomes to assess for every academic year or identified an alternative assessment focus;
- The program analyzed student work or other evidence of learning;
- The program come to some conclusions based on the analysis of students' work or other evidence of learning;
- Using the conclusions from the analysis, the department proposed actions or steps to improve students' learning; or choose different learning outcomes to assess for the following academic year.
- Accountability and a timeline are specified for the actions or interventions;
- There is an assessment plan for the following academic year.
